

Road to the World Series

The 2017 LA Dodgers through the lens of two photographers

Monday November 20th, 7PM

About The Event

Join professional photographers, Keith Birmingham, Wally Skalij for a FREE evening on "The Road the World Series." We're going back and taking a look at what it is like to be behind the lens of two different photographers during the 2017 World Series. We love watch the Dodgers, you love the photos, see what it take to make the pictures.

Monday, November 20 7pm FREE

Register Online:

creativephotoacademy.com/events/roadtotheworldseries

Keith Birmingham

An award winning photographer Keith Birmingham has been a staff photographer at the Pasadena Star-News specializing in sports and portrait photography for 25 years. Keith's work has appeared in Sports Illustrated, the New York Times, Los Angeles Dodgers Magazine, and National Sports Daily. Keith has been published in three books He has also won Picture of the Year from SportsShooter.com and been nominated by his paper for three Pulitzer Prize awards.

Wally Skalij

In October of 1997, Wally Skalij joined the photography staff at the Los Angeles Times. Over the past 14 years, he has covered five Olympic games, nine NBA Finals, and numerous other sporting events including World Series games, hockey finals, boxing championships, and the Kentucky Derby. Wally has been a faculty member in the Sports Shooter Workshop for many years and enjoys devoting his time to help others grow as photographers.

23845 Hawthorne Blvd. Torrance 90505

310-375-7014 paulsphoto.com creativephotoacademy.com